We are so excited to extend this invitation to join us for a delicious brunch and great conversation at the beautiful Proximity Hotel. With our theme of “Sisters are Jewels” we hope that you will come adorned with your favorite jewels as a reminder of just how precious we are as sisters in Christ.

In addition to our uplifting general conversation with one another, we will also be sharing our perspectives on the newest book by Anne Lamott, Hallelujah Anyway Rediscovering Mercy. Anne felt the need to write her book based on her observations that mercy is something we are lacking in our relationships with everyone, even ourselves. When you RSVP for the brunch, you will be given one portion of the book to read for sharing at our gathering; but, I’m sure you will want to read the entire book. The book can be found at major booksellers or through Amazon.

We hope you will join us for this “precious” time together to reflect the jewels we all are to one another. In addition to your RSVP to Abby, no later than October 27th, please remit registration in the amount of $20.00 for the brunch to The Christian Church in North Carolina in the envelope provided. Please write “Sisters are Jewels” on the memo line. Looking forward to being with all of you dazzling gems!
